HALF THE SKY: visualized

An exhibition featuring the work of remarkable artists visually exploring the writings of Nicholas Kristof and Sheryl WuDunn in their Pulitzer-Prize winning book Half the Sky: Turning Oppression into Opportunity for Women Worldwide. Deploying a variety of media the artists address issues such as the trafficking of children, child brides, female genital mutilation, and the consequences of sponsored sexual violence as a weapon of war.

A collaborative project organized by the Contemporary Art Galleries at the School of Fine Arts in conjunction with the departments of Art & Art History, Dramatic Arts, Music, The Human Rights Institute, Women's Studies and the School of Journalism. Additional support provided by the Provost's Office and the Graduate School.
